ABSTRACT

The slump in the tourism sector in Bali caused tourist business actors to no longer be able to continue their business normally including the immigrant population of tourist business actors. As a result of the reduced tourists caused by the Covid-19 Pandemic, there is a reduction in the number of employees (layoffs), cutting employee wages, even to the termination of work and laying off a number of employees with an unspecified period of time. This research was carried out with the aim of; (1) Analyzing the economic activity of migrant residents of tourist business actors in Ungasan Village between before and during the Covid-19 Pandemic. (2) Analyzing the socio-economic situation of the migrant population of tourist business actors in Ungasan Village between before and during the Covid-19 Pandemic. This research was designed as a descriptive study by conducting a population study on 105 immigrant residents of tourist business actors in Ungasan Village. Data collection uses interview guidelines that are further analyzed descriptively qualitatively. The results showed that (1) There was a change in economic activity of the migrant population of tourist business actors in Ungasan Village between before and during the Covid-19 Pandemic. Before the Covid-19 Pandemic, the economic activity of the immigrant population of tourist business actors in Ungasan Village was broadly two, namely tour guides (49.52%) and hotel employees (50.48%). During the Covid19 Pandemic, only 27.62% still survived economic activities in tourist businesses, the rest of their economic activities experienced vertical mobility spread across 5 economic activities, namely: Services, Trade, Agriculture, and Industry. Changes in social circumstances before the pandemic were in high category (66.67%) and very high (33.33%). During the Covid-19 Pandemic, the migrant population of tourist business actors in Ungasan Village which is classified as a very high socio-economic situation is no longer there, while the high number becomes 90.48%, the rest is classified as a sufficient socioeconomic situation (9.52%). As a household strategy, there is vertical mobility, namely changes in economic activities carried out there are 6 types of work carried out by migrant residents of tourist business actors in Ungasan Village who used to pursue economic activities in the field of tourism (as tour guides and Karayawan Hotels), namely trade, agriculture, animal husbandry, industry, services and some are still working in the field of tourism. This is done as a household strategy in maximizing household income.
