The Lion King (1994) Synopsis

The ceremony within all the citizen of pride rock begins in order to celebrate young Simba's presentation as the future king of pride rock. Rafiki as the religious leader leads the ceremony with the king Mufasa and queen Sarabi as Simba's parent. Unfortunately, Scar as Simba's uncle does not come to the ceremony because of his bad personal sentiment to Mufasa and Simba. Then, after the ceremony Zazu as the king's adviser is ordered by Mufasa to warn Scar of the consequence of his act, but he fails and even Scar tries to attack Zazu, finally Mufasa shows up and warns Scar to not repeat his mistake.

Simba as the young prince of the pride land learns about how to be a great king from Mufasa. In his lesson he learns about the border of the kingdom, the circle of life, and many things. At the end of his lesson, Simba meets with his uncle named Scar, he tells everything about his previous lesson to his uncle then at one point Scar tricks Simba that only the bravest lion who brave enough to enter the forbidden place named Elephant graveyard. Suddenly, Simba is encouraged by Scar's persuasion. Then he decides to enter the forbidden place with his friend.

Simba invited Nala to come along to the elephant graveyard. In order to get permission he lies to his mother about the destination and tells that they wants to explore a water hole. Then, Simba's mother gives a permission as long as Zazu comes with them, but in the middle of the street Zazu is tricked by Simba and Nala. They leave Zazu behind in order to go to their true destination. When Simba and Nala finally arrive at the elephant graveyard, Zazu catches them and scolds them in the order to leave the place immediately, unfortunately the hyenas find them and try to chase them. They run from the hyenas, but the hyenas catches Zazu and want to eat him. Simba and Nala decides to save Zazu, but they are not strong enough to beat those hyenas. Fortunately, Mufasa came and beat the hyenas, and then they go back to pride land safely because of Mufasa. In the savanna, Mufasa commands Zazu to accompany Nala to go back to her home. He wants to talk with Simba in order to ask Simba about his disobedient attitude of visiting a forbidden place. He scolds Simba for his mistakes and advices him to not do the same mistake again, then Simba seems to regret his mistake. Finally, Mufasa tells Simba about the stars which makes Simba learns about his predecessor.

Meanwhile, in the shadowy place where the hyenas live. Uncle Scar persuades the beaten hyenas to kill Mufasa and Simba. In the next day, he tricks Simba that causes the dead of the king. Then he uses Mufasa's death to blame Simba for everything which forces Simba to leave the pride rock immediately. Later, Scar claims the throne of the pride rock and claims that Mufasa and Simba are already dead. All people are sad because of the bad news, including Rafiki as the king subordinate and also Mufasa's friend he really sad because he thinks that the king and also the prince of pride land are already dead in a tragic accident.

On the other hand, Simba runs into nowhere and finally passes out in the desert. Fortunately, Timon and Pumba find him and decide to rescue him. When Simba wakes up, Timon and Pumba feels a pity to him, because Simba says that he does not have a place to go and even he cannot back to his homeland due to his personal problem. Then, they decide to cheer Simba and teach Simba about how to live without a stress “Hakuna Matata”. Finally, Simba follows Timon and Pumba to their home where in Timon and Pumba’s house he learns about a new life and live a life without stress. Meanwhile, in the pride land Scar ruled the pride land badly that causes disaster and sadness in the pride land. Later on, in the jungle a teenager Simba has a chit chat with Timon and Pumba about the stars. Their conversation recalls Simba’s memory about his past life which signs Rafiki that Simba is still alive in a very mysterious ways.

Simba meets again with Nala his old friend by accident. Then, he introduces her with his new friends Timon and Pumba. He shows Nala about his new life living in the jungle, but in the middle of their conversation Nala persuades Simba to go back to the pride land in order to take back his throne. She tells Simba about Scar’s evil domination which makes pride rock in the crisis condition. Suddenly Simba confuses because he thinks that he is not proper enough to claim his throne. Then he leaves Nala and walks into Savanna in order to clear his mind. At that time, Simba meets with Rafiki who knows about his past life and argues that Mufasa is still alive. Encouraged by his curiosity, Simba chases Rafiki in the hope to meet with Mufasa, but instead of meeting with his father, Rafiki teaches Simba about how to deal with his bad past. At that time, Simba decides to go back to pride rock to claim his throne.

The next day, Rafiki tells Nala, Timon, and Pumba that Simba is on his way into the pride rock. Then, they decide to help Simba to claim his throne. Meanwhile, Simba finally arrives at pride rock. He suddenly gets shock because of pride rock’s bad condition after led by Scar. Then accompanied by his friend Simba decides to challenge Scar in order to end Scar’s evil domination. Eventually, after a long fight between Mufasa’s army and Scar’s army. Simba defeats Scar with the help of his friends and his people. Then, he claims his throne and brings a peace into his land.
