Appendix I. Synopsis of Roald Dahl's Fantastic Mr. Fox

The novel Fantastic Mr. Fox by Roald Dahl, tells about a fantastic fox named Mr. Fox that. He was a fox who was very smart and also cunning. It was in a valley, there were three ranchers who were rich. They were named Boggis the fat chicken breeder, short Bunce the duck and goose breeder, then Bean the skinny turkey breeder and apple farmer. The three of them were so annoying, stingy and mean. Meanwhile, on the hill above the valley, lived Mr. Fox and his family, Mrs. Fox and the four little Foxes, in a hole under a big tree. every night, Mr. Fox came to the farm and took their chickens, ducks and turkeys.

Because he could not stand Mr. Fox, Boggis, Bunce and Bean then planned to kill the fox, but they failed. Then they started digging Mr. Fox. Initially using a shovel, but Mr. Fox is no less clever, he dug his hole even deeper. Boggis and his two best friends didn't lose their minds. They brought a tractor to unload the whole hill. Not satisfied with that method, the three of them then mobilized hundreds of their farm workers to surround the hill which has now become a valley. They think if they wait days at the hole, Mr. Fox and his family would have starved and would have died or climbed out of hole. As a result, they also set up camp there.

As the entire hill has been destroyed by Boggis, Bunce, and Bean's tractors, most of the animals that live in the forest also starve because they cannot get out, and they meet Mr. Fox in the ground. But, Mr. Fox had a fantastic idea. Even though he was weak from hunger, he still didn't give up. Together with his children, he then came up with a brilliant idea that could save his family and friends from starvation.

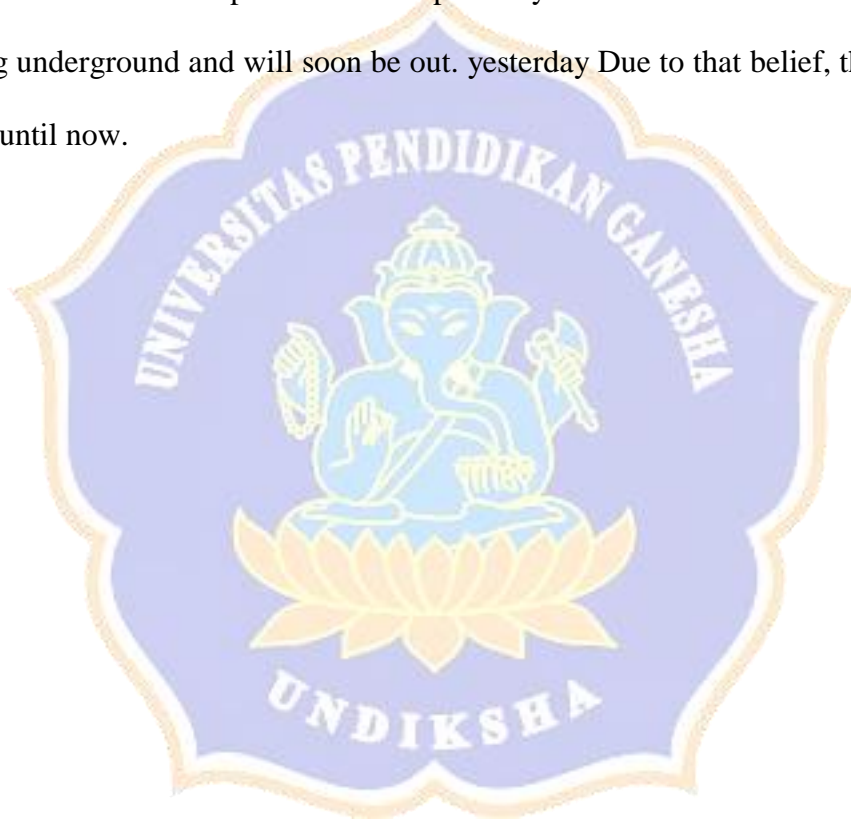

In their efforts to dig the ground, Mr. Fox met Badger and his son, who were having trouble finding the right way to get food. He and his family experienced hunger because it was difficult to find food. This was the result of the three evil farmers who destroyed the hill. He told the fox that many burrowing animals were in danger because the farmers destroyed the hill. This made Mr. Fox felt responsible. He thought this problem was caused by him. Mr. Fox proved that he was not only smart but also generous by inviting all the other animals for the greatest feast of all time, prepared from the loot they just stole.

Mr. Fox traveled with Badger and his children to steal lots of food from the three farmers' farms. They made their way to Boggis' farm, which had lots of big fat chickens. Then they headed to Bunce's farm, which had lots of fat ducks. Finally, they headed to Bean's cider warehouse, which contained lots of delicious cider. There were many obstacles when they carried out this heist plan. Mr. Fox, with his intelligence, always solved every problem they faced. The sharp mind that Mr. Fox got them out of harm's way when he stole food from the three farmers' farms.

Their journey yielded very satisfying results. After getting lots of food and drinks, Mr. Fox and the others headed to the big party they were going to throw. There, Mrs. Fox had been waiting for them to have a party together. All the animals on the hill also came to the party Mr. Fox. They were very happy because there was a lot of food at the party. This greatly satisfied the animals who were present at the party. In the middle of the party, Mr. Fox gave a speech that they had tricked the three farmers. They had also managed to get plenty of food from the three farmers' farms. then Mr. Fox invited the animals to live underground. They didn't have to go out to find food because Mr. Fox would give them easy access to food from the three farmers' farms. He wanted to make a small underground village. This made the animals cheer and rejoice at what Mr. Fox. They were very grateful to Mr. Fox. Yesterday, They, too, were happily willing to live forever underground.

Still beyond the surface, the three farmers are still waiting for Mr. Fox. They were still trying to catch Mr. Fox, but that is very unlikely to happen because Mr. Fox and the other animals decided to stay under the ground. They waited by sitting beside the tent with weapons in their laps. They still have faith that Mr. Fox is starving underground and will soon be out. yesterday Due to that belief, they have waited until now.
