Fox and A cat

One day, a cat and a fox were having a conversation. The fox, who was a cancelled creature, boasted how clever she was. "Why, I know at least a hundred tricks to get away from our mutual enemies, the dogs," she said.

"I know only one trick to get away from dogs," said the cat. "You should teach me some of yours!"

"Well, maybe someday, when I have the time, I may teach you a ~~few~~ few of the simpler ones," replied the fox airily.

Just then they heard the barking of a pack of dogs in the distance. The barking grew ~~louder~~ louder and louder - the dogs were coming in their direction! At once the cat ran to the nearest tree and climbed into its branches, well out of reach of any dog. "This is the trick I told you about, the only one I know," said the cat. "~~Which~~ which one of your hundred tricks are you going to use?"

The fox sat silently under the tree, wondering which trick she should use. Before she ~~could~~ could make up her mind, the dogs arrived. They ~~fell~~ fell upon the fox and tore her to pieces.

The Lion and The Mouse

When he was awakened by a tiny mouse running across his body, a mighty lion was sleeping in his lair. The lion then grabbed the frightened mouse with his huge paws and opened his mouth to swallow him directly. "Please, King," begged the mouse, "Spare me this time and of course I will never forget your kindness. Someday I may be able to repay you." The lion thought that it was such an amusing idea that he let the poor creature go.

Sometimes later the lion was caught in a net laid by some hunters. Despite his great strength, the lion could not break free. Soon the forest echoed with angry loud roars.

The little mouse heard the lion and ran to see what was wrong. As soon as he succeeded to make the lion free ~~there~~ "There!" said the mouse proudly, "you laughed at me when I promised to repay your kindness, but now you know that even a tiny mouse can help a mighty lion."

Narrative Text

Once upon a time, on the coast of Sumatra lived a poor woman and her son, who called Main Kundang. His father eventually died, and his mother lived alone as a poverty-stricken old woman.

Main Kundang grew up as a spirited young boy. He always helps his mother to earn some money. One day, Main Kundang decide going to overseas and promise to back.

After several years had gone by, Main Kundang finally decide to return to his village. He arrived wearing fine clothes and traveling on one of his ships. Someone arriving in such splendor was uncommon to the villagers, so many of them went down to the harbor to view the sight.

One of the villagers recognized Main Kundang from a scar that he had received while playing as a child. Upon recognizing the mark, the villager went to tell Main Kundang's mother that her son had returned. Excitedly she went to the shore and recognizing her son the minute her eyes fell on him.

When the older woman called him her son, he refused to believe that he had such an old woman as a mother. His disbelief was heightened when his wife questioned why he had not told her that he had an elderly, poor mother.

In an alternate translation, Main Kundang was on the ship with just his crew. When his mother attempted to embrace him, he was too embarrassed by her ragged appearance to acknowledge her and instead, had on of them carry her away.

Distraught and finally realizing his son's wickedness, Main Kundang's mother gave up on her son's acknowledgment and prayed to her god to punish her son for his behavior.

The day after his mother's prayer, Main Kundang sailed out of the village. Shortly thereafter, the ship was met by a violent storm. Main Kundang believed the storm was his mistreatment of his mother.

He felt guilty about his behavior towards her, asked for forgiveness, and began to pray. However, his repentance was too late, for the ship was destroyed at sea. But, in some translations of the tale, Main Kundang was turned into coral. In other, the ship, the crew, and he become rock formations that are still standing.

The meaning of Main Kundang's story in English reminds us not to forgive a mother's kindness like bears forgetting their own mothers. The aim of this story is for every child to respect their parents and not disobey them, because success and wealth are not comparable to the love of their parents.

The Ant and the Dove

One hot day, an ant was seeking some water. After walking around for a moment, she came to a spring. To reach the spring, she had to climb up a blade of grass. While making her way up, she slipped and fell unintentionally into the water.

She could have seen if a dove up a nearby tree had not seen her. Seeing that the ant was in trouble, the dove quickly put off a leaf from a tree and dropped it immediately into the water near the struggling ant. Then the ant moved towards the leaf and climbed up there. Soon it carried her safely to dry ground.

Not long after that, there was a hunter nearby who was throwing out his net towards the dove, hoping to trap it in this way.

Guessing what he should do, the ant quickly bit him on the heel. Feeling the pain, the hunter dropped his net and the dove flew away quickly from this net.

True Friends

Once upon a time, there were two close friends who were not waiting through the forest together. They knew that anything dangerous can happen any time in the forest. So they promised each other that they would always be together in any case of danger.

Suddenly, they saw a large bear getting closer toward them. One of them climbed a nearby tree at once. But unfortunately the other one did not know how to climb up the tree, so being led by his common sense, he lay down on the ground breathless and pretended to be a dead man.

The bear came near the one who was lying on the ground. It smelt in his ears, and slowly left the place because the bears do not want to touch the dead dead creatures. After that, the friend on the tree came down and asked his friend who was on the ground, "Friends what did the bear whisper into your ears?" The other friend replied, "Just now the bear advised me not to believe a false friend".

The Fox and The Grapes

A fox one day spied a beautiful bunch of ripe grapes hanging from a vine trained along the branches of a tree. The grapes seemed ready to burst with juice, and the fox's mouth watered as he gazed longingly at them.

The bunch hung from a high branch, and the fox had to jump for it. The first time he jumped he missed it by a long way. So he walked off a short distance and took a running leap at it, only to fall short once more. Again and again he tried, but in vain.

Now he sat down and looked at the grapes in disgust. "What a fool I am," he said. "Here I am wearing myself out to get a bunch of sour grapes that are not worth gaping for."

And off he walked very, very ~~soon~~ scornfully.
