Early Childhood Education Teacher Education Study Program

ABSTRACT

This research was motivated by a lack of parental knowledge about the importance of sexual education from an early age for the ability to care for themselves in young children. The aim of this research is to find out the relationship between early sexual education and the ability to care for themselves in young children at the Banjar Tegal State Kindergarten. This type of research is ex post facto research with a quantitative approach and is classified into correlation research. The population in the research were students from the Banjar Tegal State Kindergarten. The sample for this study was from group B (1.23) with a total of 59 samples. Data on the results of early sexual education for students' parents and their ability to protect themselves were collected using a questionnaire. Then analyzed using descriptive statistical analysis and inferential statistical analysis. Based on the results of hypothesis testing using product moment correlation, the results obtained were r_{count} 0.710 and r_{table} at the 5% level was 0.266 where $r_{count} > r_{tabel}$ so it can be stated that there is a positive relationship between early sexual education for people and students and the ability to look after themselves in children from an early age in Tegal Banjar State Kindergarten.

Keywords: Sexual education, taking care of yourself.
