ABSTRACT

This study aims to examine the effect of: (1) firm size, (2) liquidity, and (3) profitability on earnings per share in transportation sub-sector companies listed on the Indonesia Stock Exchange. The research design used is causal quantitative. The population consists of 48 transportation sub-sector companies listed from 2020 to 2023, with a purposive sampling technique resulting in 44 selected companies. Data were collected through documentation of annual financial reports and analyzed using multiple linear regression. The results show that: (1) firm size, liquidity (Current Ratio), and profitability (Return on Assets) simultaneously have no significant effect on earnings per share; (2) firm size has a positive but not significant effect on earnings per share; (3) liquidity (CR) has a positive and significant effect on earnings per share; and (4) profitability (ROA) has a positive but not significant effect on earnings per share.

Keywords: firm size, liquidity, profitability, earnings per share
