ABSTRACT

This research, entitled "The Implementation of Rehabilitation Policy Programs in Efforts to Combat the Criminal Offense of Narcotics Abuse at the National Narcotics Agency of Buleleng Regency," aims to examine the implementation of the rehabilitation policy program in an effort to overcome the crime of drug abuse in Buleleng Regency. Rehabilitation is a humanistic approach in dealing with drug addicts, which is regulated in laws and regulations. This study uses descriptive empirical legal research with data collection techniques using guided and unguided interviews, sources and types of data using primary and secondary data. Data were obtained from interviews, observations and literature studies. The results of the study indicate that the implementation of rehabilitation in Buleleng Regency has been running but still faces several obstacles, such as a lack of experts, community stigma, and limited facilities. It is recommended that inter-agency coordination between institutions be improved and counseling to the community be expanded to support the rehabilitative approach.
