Appendix 1. Kidd's The Secret Life Bees (2001) Synopsis

The novel begins with Lily who was lying on her bed while adoring the beauty of the bees. Lily was a girl who turned into fourteen years old in 1964. She lived with abusive and cruel father named T. Ray and lovely peach picker named Rosaleen. Lily had memory about her mother whose name was Deborah and died when she was four years old. She remembered about her mother was packing her clothes to the suitcase, debating with T. Ray and the explosion of the gun. She blamed herself of her mother dead and that memory stuck in her head about ten years. She kept her mother stuffs that she buried in the peach orchard and every night she would sneak from the house and dig out from the ground.

The day before Lily's birthday, Rosaleen was planning on register her vote after the president Johnson signed the civil rights act. It made Lily wanted to accompany her to the town. One the next day, Lily and Rosaleen went to the town. During their journey three men assault Rosaleen. They hit and attack her crudely, and sent Rosaleen to the jail with Lily too. T. Ray came to the jail, but only freed Lily and left her alone there.

As arrived in the house, Lily and T. Ray were fighting. He told her that her mother did not love her because she planned to leave the house on the day she died. He also explained about the meanest racist men that attack Rosaleen and other possibilities of being attack again even died. Knowing those facts, Lily decided leaving the house because she did not believe with the fact about her mother. Besides, she pack everything that needed to go to Tiburon. She planned to free Rosaleen from the jail, but Rosaleen had moved to hospital to get further treatment of her head. Then, Lily went to the hospital to help her sneak out and she told her other possibilities of getting harm by the men, Tiburon and Deborah.

Lily and Rosaleen continued her journey with hitchhike and walk to Tiburon. In the middle of their journey, Lily stopped at the restaurant to get some foods and beverages for them to eat. She noticed a dozen black honey jars with black Mary as the label which was the same with her mother belonging. She found out that local colored women produced and sold the bee honey, so Lily and Rosaleen decided to go there to unlock the mystery of Deborah.

Arrived at Boatwright's house, Lily found three colored women named August Boatwright, June Boatwright and May Boatwright. For the first, Lily said a lie that her mother was dead when she was child and her father was died because of tractor accident. Besides, she said a lie about her planning to go to Virginia to meet her aunt. August automatically let them stayed in her house. While staying in Boatwright's house Lily learned about processing the honey combs into honey, bee wax, etc. Lily also noticed that there was a black women statue in the patrol that they called as Our Lady of Chains. The first week at August's house, Lily finally knew about May and her twin named April who died because of suicide. She also knew about the stone wall with papers slip on the crack that was made by May to share her feelings.

On Sunday morning, she found the sisters held weekly worship at their house with a group that organized by August called as daughters of Mary. The worship looked mixed with Catholics and something that suits with them. They believed that the God sent the black Mary for the American colored people. The worship was conducted with told the story, prayed and ended up with to touch the lady's heart.

On the next day, Lily met a guy named Zachary Taylor who was very handsome and intelligent, and worked for August in taking care of the bees. Without any further ado, they became close friend and continued with having crush feeling to him although for the first she did not believe that kind of things. She also had closed relationship with August who was very wise, intelligent and cultured. They loved spending time together especially while taking care of the bees and outside of works. Outside of work, August told a story of nun Beatrix who run away and got a help from Mary in covering her leaving from the church. It made Lily thought that the story was almost like her life and wondered that August might know who Lily was.

One day, Lily helped Zach to deliver the bee products to Mr. Clayton office. After load the bee products, Lily decided discovering the office and noticed the togetherness between Mr. Clayton and his daughter. It made Lily wanted calling T. Ray. He asked where Lily was, but Lily did not answer it, she asked him about Lily's favorite color. Same like Lily; T. Ray ignored her question and threatened her with punishment if she did not back. Lily decided to hang up the phone and tried to not crying.

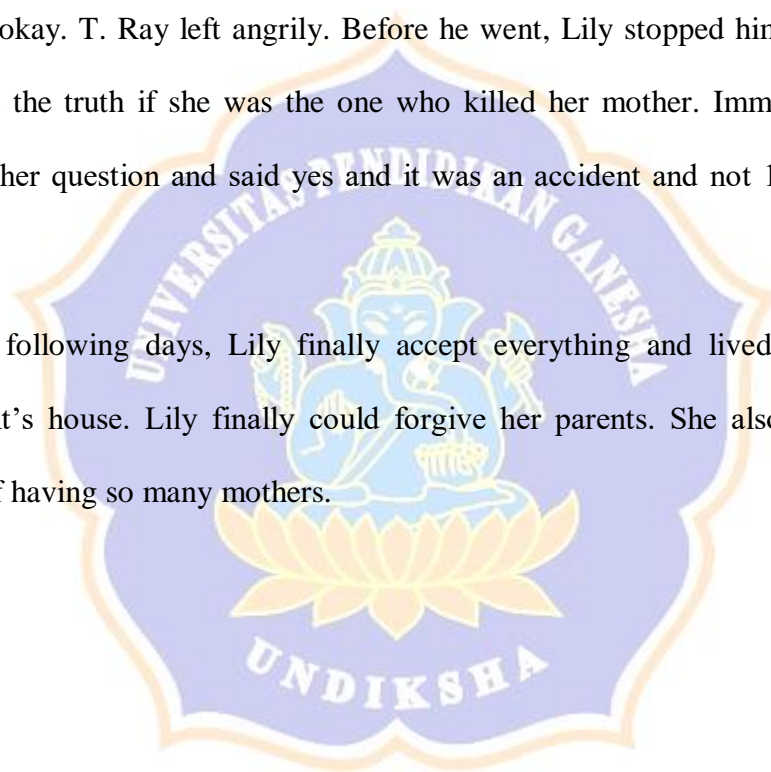

In the night, Lily was noticing that May lured the roach with marshmallows and graham cracker to the roach which was same that Lily heard about her mother from T. Ray. Lily braced herself to ask May about Deborah. Surprisingly, May said that she knew Deborah and had stayed in her house about a few years ago. It made Lily want to tell everything to August about her life, especially about her mother, but she had to delay her plan because of Zach's arrest. Everyone pretended everything was okay to ensure May did not know about it, but she finally knew from Zach's mother. May became so sad and drowned herself in the river. Everyone looked worried and tried to find her, but they were very shocked after seeing May's condition in the river, cold and pale. Zach finally freed from the jail because of Mr. Clayton. Zach came for the last honor to May at vigil day. After the mourning situation, Lily and Zach were talking about their relationship which kind of against the law nature, but Zach would be made it one day.

After the Mary day, Lily wanted to tell everything about Deborah. She showed her mother photograph to her. August explained that she worked for Deborah family when Deborah was a child and she knew well about her. When the first time Lily came to the house, August was like looking at little Deborah in Lily. The conversation continued with Lily was telling that she was lying to everyone, the fact that her father was still alive and Rosaleen was a fugitive. Then August explained about Deborah's depression during her marriage life with T. Ray. Deborah left her family and stayed in August's house for awhile. Then she back to Sylvan to take Lily, but she died on that day. August suggested forgiving Deborah and said that everyone loved her so much. For a week, Lily felt mourning and slowly forgave her parents.

The next day, T. Ray came to Boatwright's house and asked Lily rudely to come back with him. He knew Lily's position because he asked Mrs. Lacy whose phone was borrowed by Lily. They were arguing until Lily called him loudly "Daddy" and said sorry because of leaving him. In moment, T. Ray looked shock and freeze. He was crying and said Lily was looked exactly like Deborah. He begged Lily to come back with him, but Lily refused it. Then August came to the room and convinced him, and let Lily stayed with them and ensured that she would be okay. T. Ray left angrily. Before he went, Lily stopped him and asked him about the truth if she was the one who killed her mother. Immediately, he answered her question and said yes and it was an accident and not 100% Lily's faults.

In following days, Lily finally accept everything and lived happily in Boatwright's house. Lily finally could forgive her parents. She also felt lucky because of having so many mothers.
